

Mr. Andy Huang, Vice General Manager,
MOTTOMO Procom Digital Technology Co., Ltd

MultiServer

Exclusive Information Platforms Reserved for Clients

“We have numerous reseller clients and sales used to sent some essential documents to them via e-mail, such as quotations and etc. However, I have heard several times from our sales complaining about that clients failed to receive the e-mails they sent or they could not upload the quotation document to the FPT site successfully. From their complaints, I realized that we did need a more reliable platform for sales to better communicate and exchange important information with clients.”

To facilitate the bargaining process between sales and clients and prevent from missing any e-mail from clients, I expect to find a server that enables employees to create their own e-mail accounts and sales to provide the quotation information required by the clients on a universal platform. MultiServer offers us a network space to create confidential folders for specific clients. Not only can clients upload their information but also we can upload the quotation to the space. From then on, our clients can easily find the quotation information they need in this space instead of searching from thousands of e-mails!

Mr. Alex Shih, Administration Dept., Jazz Hipster Corporation

MultiServer

Master of Home Security

Our family has an exclusive home security system, which keeps us from worrying about missing any alert sent out by MultiServer when we are using computers in the office or have no other connection but mobile phones. Even every member of our family will receive the same text message instantly. The integration of IPCam, MultiServer and cellular phone assure us of leaving home for either work or holidays.

We have experienced the advantages brought by MultiServer for several times previously. Once my dad came home from his business trip earlier than scheduled, the reed switch of IPCam at front door sensed his entry and sent message to me via MultiServer right away. Although I was shocked by that time, soon I found it was the image of dad but not thieves from the online photo album. There is another time that when I was on vacation away from home, mom called me and said that she just received an alert from IPCam at the balcony. I informed my sister who was sleeping at home by that time and she rushed to the balcony and found it was a male's shirt from somewhere else. Last but not least, during our family trip, a robber intruded our house but was soon arrested since Mr. Wang, the security guard of our community, received the SMS text sent by MultiServer. We appreciate not only Mr. Wang's great help but also the impressive benefits brought by MultiServer!